KENTUCKY REPUBLICANS.

The Kentucky Republicans are courageous persons. They have nominated Thomas Z. Morrow for Governor, and adopted a platform which reaffirms the declaration of Republican principles as set forth by the National Republican Convention, held at Chicago in 1880; affirms that the only sure foundation of Republican government is intelligent citizenship, and that it is the duty of the State and of the people to provide free schools for all children in the State, and when such schools are provided all constitutional means should be used to compel parents to give their children the benefit of education; favors an adjustment of the tariff that will not only provide revenue sufficient to defray the expenses of the Government, but afford a just and reasonable protection to the industrial classes of our country, without being oppressive to the agricultural and other interests of our people; insists upon prompt and suitable steps being taken towards the calling of a Convention to amend the Constitution of the State; believes in the enactment of just laws and their speedy and impartial enforcement, and by the encouragement of an enlightened public sentiment welcome an emigration to peaceful and quiet homes among us; recognizing the fact that some of Kentucky's noblest and most patriotic citizens had their birthplace in the Green Isle of Erin, we extend to the suffering people of Ireland our warmest sympathies; seventh, we favor free tobacco, and recommend to the Congress of the United States an immediate revision of all laws affecting its production, manufacture and sale; denounce the present Democratic Governor for encouraging the criminal classes; congratulate the Administration upon the appointment of Walter Evans as Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and accept it as a compliment to the Republicans of Kentucky and the South.

The Boston Commonwealth produces a long array of vital statistics showing the chances of reaching an advanced age in the various States of the Union, and drawing therefrom an argument in favor of New England as the best locality for a life residence. The statistics show the number of persons 80 years of age or over and the proportion thereof to the total population of each State. The six New England States show an average of one in 107.4. New Hampshire heads the list with one in 73.9; Vermont follows with one in 81.4; Maine comes next with one in 89.5; Connecticut fourth with one in 110.1; Massachusetts shows one in 131.8; and Rhode Island one in 131.9. New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania together show an average of one in 208; the six South Atlantic States, one in 203.8; five Gulf States, one in 299.8; three East Mississippi States, one in 203.6; five Lake States, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, one in 262.9; seven West Mississippi States, one in 453.7; three Pacific States, one in 542.3. The eight Territories show but one in 499 reaching the age of 80 years. Of the 50,155,983 population of the United States by last census, there were 221,076 persons 80 years old or upward, an average of one in 226.87. New England hills seem to bear the palm for longevity.

The impression seems to be that the President appointed Evans without much solicitation, and on the strength of his voting with the three hundred and six at the Chicago Convention. Comment now is that the President is preparing for the Convention of 1884, and has secured the influence of two of the most powerful Departments—the Postoffice and the Revenue. In appointing Gresham he killed off Harrison, of Indiana, as a Presidential candidate, and Evans is said to be in sympathy with Arthur's views, and will serve him well.

First Assistant Postmaster General Hatton, Acting Postmaster General, has issued an order closing all the Postoffices on Decoration Day between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m., except in the larger cities. In those cities the Postmasters are to use their own discretion as to the hours of closing their offices.

The Albion Consolidated mine is being worked for account of the creditors. Some time will elapse before the mine recovers from the mismanagement of the former officers.

PROSPEROUS CALIFORNIA.

Estimates Collected by the Central Pacific Railway—Probable Yield of Cereals, Metals and Wool—Total Value About $82,400,000.

The Bulletin says that in all quarters it is acknowledged that the present season will be one of the most prosperous that California has yet seen. Estimates of production, wherever made, show this. Among the most reliable information to be obtained on the important subject of the progress of the State, is that collected by the Central Pacific Railroad. Its facilities for gathering facts, and its policy, as set forth in its instructions to its immigration agents, and to persons supplying information, to make use of only what will hold good for the whole State, render it able to present as true a picture of the condition of the coast as can be obtained from any source. Of some of the principal products of the State, the following estimates for the present year have been made: Wheat, of course, comes first, and its yield is put at 1,200,000 tons, which will be worth $36,000,000. The mines come next with $20,000,000. The wool clip is next in rank, its amount being estimated at 42,000,000 pounds, worth at least $10,200,000. The fruit and vine interest ranks fourth, with production of $10,000,000. Cattle for market show $4,000,000, and sheep 1,200,000. Dairy products are estimated at $700,000, and flax, silk, cotton, etc., at $200,000. Unclassified products, such as cashmere goat hair, chicory, garden truck, etc., are estimated at $100,000. This makes a total of $82,600,000, or $82,600,000 for agriculture and kindred pursuits. It is estimated that only 150,000 people are engaged in agriculture, and it is asked if any other State can make as good a showing with a similar agricultural population. The reason for this large production is found to lie in the character of the land, which yields $15 per acre in cereals to $10 in the States of the Mississippi Valley. Vineyard and orchard lands here yield $100 per acre. The prosperous condition of the State is further shown by the fact that, notwithstanding low interest has caused the withdrawal of many deposits from banks, there were, January 1, 1883, deposits amounting to $93,042,242 39 against $86,391,519 90 at the corresponding date last year.

AN ARTHUR BOOM.

The President's Efforts to Conciliate the Republican Factions.

The Chicago Tribune, which has long been looked upon as a rampant half-breed newspaper, and particularly opposed to President Arthur, after citing his growing popularity of late, says editorially: There are evident signs of purpose in the Executive Mansion at Washington to conciliate all factions, except those which can be of no service in a political way. It looks like an "Arthur boom." If that be the aim, the course the President is pursuing is certainly more ingenious and sagacious than that taken by Secretary Sherman when he was in the control of the Treasury under Hayes. Sherman undertook to work up his Presidential aspirations by clumsy manipulation of patronage which everybody understood and condemned. If President Arthur is managing his administration with reference to a re-election, he is doing it in a plastic and yielding way, which is not calculated to excite resentment, or bring out popular protest. The suspicions of the half-breeds seem to have been quieted, where their favor has not been actually won. Even civil service reformers, since the retirement of Keim, appear to be satisfied. The friends of the administration are springing up in unexpected places, and on the whole, an "Arthur boom," which would have been regarded as ridiculous a year ago, may become a very interesting complication in the approaching Presidential campaign.

A Good Indication.

It must not be said that the State of Nevada is failing to decay, says the Carson Tribune, when every perch of Government land is eagerly sought after. Wednesday sixty patents were recorded in the office of the Secretary of State and not a day passes but more or less land patents are recorded, in fact the officers of the department are kept busy attending to such matters.

This is the manner in which the Tassarora News notices the movements of a gentleman who was a candidate for Justice of the Peace of Reno:

Rev. Jesse Atwell will leave this morning for Elko, where he intends to remain permanently, having received a clerkship in a mercantile house of that town. Besides being a jolly good fellow, Jesse is a "masher" from the old house, and the young men of the county seat had better secure their best girls with a string or they are liable to lose them.

GEN. McCLELLAN INTERVIEWED.

He Talks Freely to a Texas Reporter on the Political Situation and Other Topics.

The Fort Worth Gazette of Wednesday morning prints a four column interview with General George B. McClellan, in which the latter discusses matters freely. He is in Texas in the interest of a syndicate of New York capitalists, who contemplate purchasing a body of land in Knox county. He thinks the South in general, and Texas in particular, has made wonderful progress since the war. He anticipates that the introduction of cotton factories would advance the cotton States to the first position in the Union. The Democratic party should come out squarely for a tariff for revenue only. Absolute free trade was impossible. The people would not submit to the burden of protection any longer. He believed the chances favored the election of Carlisle for Speaker of the House, but he spoke very warmly of Randall's ability and services. Tilden was out of the field as a Presidential possibility, and Cleveland was never a candidate. He spoke warmly of Hancock and Bayard, and would not be surprised if the former was again the Democratic nominee. Butler and Dana were impossibilities, as none but straight Democrats should be honored. He further said that Northern capitalists were striving eagerly to possess themselves of Texas land, and that cattle-raising was becoming contagious with Northern people.

Stocks show another advance, and yesterday's market was a lively one. Norcross advanced to 9 1/2, Union to 7 1/2, Sierra Nevada to 6 1/2, Potosi to 2, Alta to 1, Gould and Curry to 4 1/2, and all others in proportion.

Abrahams Bros. have on hand the latest styles of gentlemen's clothing to be found on the coast. Their goods come direct from New York, and as to quality there is no discount. Their stock of hats is large and embraces all the new styles.

Yellow Jacket.

The Virginia Chronicle says the new management of the Yellow Jacket will take hold on the 1st of June. There seems to be still some doubt as to who will be Superintendent. Captain Taylor, some say, will remain in charge, while others assert that Charley Forman will be the man, or Sam Jones, or W. E. Sharon, the ex-Senator's nephew. The Jacket is turning out about $75,000 or $80,000 a month—a bullion product which will probably justify a regular monthly dividend. Jacket ore assays $20 a ton, while Crown Point ore said to give only $11 has been made to pay for milling and mining, and it costs more to get out the Crown Point ore, as it is much deeper than the Jacket deposit.

Racing at Agricultural Park To-day.

There will be considerable sport at the Park to-day, trotting and running, for purses that are quite an object for those who have horses that can get over the ground fairly. R. Geise's Morgan, Alf Hill's Salem and S. A. Hooper's Billy Graham will trot, both two in three, for $75. This will be followed by a mile dash between Knight's, Lady Miller, Hooper's Bangle-and-go and Lee's Coyote. The afternoon's sport will close with a mile and repeat race, for which Frank Perkins' Bald Hornet and Lee's Snowflake are entered.

Agricultural and Immigration News.

Almost every day the Secretary of State receives communications from Eastern parties requesting reports of the agricultural interests of the State, also the amount of immigration from abroad. The Tribune says there is no such report extant, and as a matter of course the Secretary cannot devote his time to culling statistics in that regard for the benefit of persons abroad, and so his only recourse is to forward a few of the Controller's reports, which are very meagre relative to such particulars.

State Finances.

The Board of Examiners made an official examination and count of the money and vouchers for money in the Treasury on the 24th, and found $127,260 30 in coin; and $16,922 63 in vouchers, and securities amounting to $670,000.

GEN. DAVIS "SURPRISED."

Parting Testimonial from His Deputies, Clerks and Attaches.

Gen. E. S. Davis yesterday morning surrendered his office to Mr. Fowning. At the close of business in the afternoon the deputies, officers, and attaches, assembled in the Chief Clerk's room, and Gen. Davis was called in and presented a magnificent set of silverware, consisting of seven pieces, and suitably inscribed. Chief Clerk Butler made the presentation speech, and referred to the pleasant associations enjoyed between all, during the long term of the General's incumbency, covering a period of 14 years, 5 months and 7 days. Speaking for all connected with the office Mr. Butler wished him restoration to health, and a long season of happiness and prosperity. Gen. Davis was deeply affected, so much so that the tears could not be kept back and his voice was broken while he returned his acknowledgments. He referred to his long connection with the office, and paid a handsome compliment to all connected with him, recommending them to his successor. He adverted to the work of the office, and showed how useful and beneficial it had been to the State of Nevada and its School Fund. In concluding he again expressed his gratitude for the evidences of appreciation manifested toward him. Others made a few remarks, and then the popping of corks and clinking of glasses had the call for some time, everybody present regretting to feel that the General had even the slightest disposition to leave Nevada.

A WORD OF WARNING.

Clean up Your Premises Before Disease Comes.

Warm weather is coming on and housekeepers ought to take precautions to destroy the disease germs which lurk in cellars, barns and back yards, where vegetable matter has accumulated during the winter. Decomposing vegetation is a most fruitful cause of all germ disease. Almost every cellar, no matter how careful the housekeeper may be, contains small remnants of vegetable food accidentally dropped during the winter. While the weather is freezing outside, little decay sets in; but just now there is a rapid fermenting action in all such things, and the health of a whole family may be affected mysteriously from no other cause than a few rotting potatoes, apples, cabbages, beans or other like substances. Any offensive smell in a cellar or closet is good cause for examination, but the warning is often given by a close and oppressive atmosphere. It is a good idea to give a thorough airing and cleaning at this season to all storerooms and cellars that have been tightly closed during the winter. An opening of doors and windows, an energetic use of broom, brush and water, followed by a wholesale application of whitewash, may be the means of saving many persons from precarious health if not downright illness. The above is from the Bodie Free Press and is as applicable to Reno as to Bodie.

Let's Match Him Against Sullivan.

The San Francisco Call says: Andrew Ryder, one of the oldest and best known of the Central Pacific conductors, ran the overland to Sacramento yesterday for the first time in seven years. Mr. Ryder has been twice elected by the voters of Alameda county to the responsible position of County Clerk. Having finished his four years of official life he now returns to his old position on the Central Pacific. Mr. Ryder is small in stature, and in the early days of railroading across the Sierras was frequently attacked by desperate characters who would fight but not pay, and by three-card monte men and other gamblers, whose practices he would never allow on his train, but the plucky "little conductor" was never whipped, and he has flung many a desperado out of a car and off the train, and was never particular, either, how fast the train was running at the time.

Beer.

Beer depends upon many things to make it fit for the palate and nutritious for the stomach. Warm beer is an unseemly abomination in the sight of man and the vendor of liquors who would set out a schooner of beer lukewarm in its temperature to thirsty patrons is as low and contemptible in his proclivities as he who has no music in his soul. Cool beer on a warm day is a perpetual delight and keeps the public in a state of low temperature and good humor seemly in the sight of the authorities. Cool beer, well drawn, keeps the Government on an even keel. George Becker, of the Granite saloon, keeps this kind of beer and it is always on tap.

REEF CATTLE.

A Bear Article From a San Francisco Paper.

The San Francisco Post says:

It was the general impression last fall that beef cattle would rule higher this summer than ever before, not only on this coast, but also in the States and Territories east of the Rocky Mountains. The main influence to bring it about on this coast was the reported marketing of larger supplies in Nevada, Oregon, Washington and Idaho of stock cattle than ever before; not only was this reported to have been done, but it was also claimed that the high prices paid by drovers induced the selling of a larger number of young cattle. If the above was done by raisers, then the market should most certainly have shown an advancing tone, without other influences to counteract; but on the contrary, the market has been declining, with a weak tone at the close. The offerings have lately been unusually heavy, and of beef in excellent condition. From present appearances still lower prices are apt to rule, and may touch a lower figure than for the past two years. This lower tendency causes slayfitters, and also packers to hesitate in securing any more than they can easily handle without running the risk of losing much. No doubt the lower tendency of the market on this coast has been brought about by the changed condition at the West and East. This changed condition will undoubtedly be felt later on. A leading cattle journal of the East has the following to say on the situation there: "The fat cattle market this spring differs from that of a year ago in one essential particular, which prevents prices from reaching the extreme range which many expected to find at this time. We refer to the present character of the country butcher trade. In the spring of 1882 no beef cattle of any consequence were obtainable without visiting the fat stock markets, and the demand from this source did much towards advancing and sustaining prices. This spring, however, country butchers are getting a large percentage of their supplies from about home. A good many farmers fed a few head of cattle last winter who fed none in the preceding one, and these cattle, while not apparently numerous, have been sufficient to curtail the country demand at all points quite materially. It is safe to say that not one half as many fat cattle are being bought at the Pittsburgh market now for country consumption as there was a year ago, and other markets are having a similar experience. This is a matter to which very little attention has been given in arranging for this spring's trade, but it is of considerable importance, nevertheless." As the East takes largely from this coast, the above, no doubt, gives the main cause for the lower market here, owing to a lessened inquiry from thence.

In Memoriam.

Of Jo Sears the Pioche Record says: Joseph L. Sears, for many years manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company in Pioche, died at Rock Creek, Wyoming, on Sunday morning, May 13th, while on the way to his mother's home in Omaha. During the war he served his country in a position of great trust and responsibility, and sometimes of danger, having enlisted in the telegraphic branch of the service when a mere boy. He was about 36 years of age at the time of his death. When he left us few had hoped that he would live many days. A deep sadness prevailed in this community when we saw him last. This feeling was intensified at the news of his death. To say when a man is dead, that his life was pure and noble, is common. But there was nothing common about the life of Jo Sears. It was a life unobtrusive to the world, yet carrying on always in its sphere faithfully, earnestly and bravely an important part of the world's work—a life devoted to love and thoughtful care of his family—and a life that was beautiful beyond compare to those who had the happiness to know him well. It does not rob death of all its sadness to know that the brother who is gone had no cause to fear it—that he left no ranking bitterness in the hearts of enemies—that he walked modestly, yet steadily and fearlessly, forward to the end in accord with the Great Law; but it does take away some of the harshness of the Universal Decree, when we feel that he who has gone before us met his fate singularly without a regret. More than this—when the sharper pangs of grief shall have passed—let us hope that our sadness may turn to a beautiful remembrance of what we loved in him. In life he said he wished no mourning for his death. Loving, unselfish friend, we are not, and we would not be, able to hold back the tears that fall for you. Human nature must run its course. Sorrow shall have its time. But after that the sweetness of your memory will linger with us always.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-1883.
